Conference at Lausanne University on March 20–21, 2020

The thirteenth History of Recent Economics Conference (HISRECO) will be held at the University of Lausanne, Centre Walras Pareto, on March 20-21, 2020.

Since 2007, HISRECO has brought together researchers from various backgrounds to study the history of economics in the postwar period. The increasing availability of archival materials, along with the development of new perspectives inherited from the larger history and sociology of knowledge, has helped to provide insightful histories of the development of recent economic practices, ideas, and techniques. In particular, this area of research offers good opportunities to young scholars who are interested in interdisciplinary approaches to the history of economics.

The organizing committee: François Allisson (University of Lausanne), Cléo Chassonnery-Zaïgouche (CRASSH, University of Cambridge), Pedro Duarte (University of São Paulo and Insper), Yann Giraud (University of Cergy-Pontoise) and Harro Maas (University of Lausanne).
