Termin 09.12.2019 09:00 Uhr - 10:30 Uhr

Lecture given by Henry Farrell and Abraham Newman in Hamburg

Language: English

Location: GIGA German Institute of Global and Area Studies, Neuer Jungfernstieg 21, 20354 Hamburg

Speaker: Prof. Dr. Henry Farrell (George Washington University)

Prof. Dr. Abraham Newman (Georgetown University)

Moderator: Prof. Dr. Amrita Narlikar (President of the GIGA)

Asymmetrically grown networks of informational and financial exchange allow states to use certain structural conditions for coercive ends. They increasingly “weaponize interdependence” with global effect. The lecture will present this new understanding of globalisation and power, which has clear policy implications.

Henry Farrell is Professor of Political Science and International Affairs at the Elliott School of International Affairs, George Washington University. His research interests include, European Union and European integration, e-commerce, politics and blogs.

Abraham Newman is Professor in the Edmund A. Walsh School of Foreign Service and Government Department at Georgetown University. He is the Director of the Mortara Center for International Studies. His research focuses on the ways in which economic interdependence and globalization have transformed international politics.

The event will be chaired by Amrita Narlikar, President of the GIGA and Professor of International Relations at the University of Hamburg.

Seating is limited; please register early on our website to avoid disappointment:
